LABlearning awarded in Catalonia !!

The LABlearning project received a prize from the ACPPJ, Associació Catalana de Professionals de les Polítiques de Joventut (Association of Professionals for the Youth Policies).

This summer 2012 the LABlearning project was awarded for the AcPpJ. The LABlearning was selected as a good practice within the collection of good practices in the field of youth that AcPpJ is working advised by experts and the support from the General Management for the Youth of the Catalan Government. The AcPpJ is working on a publication and a web application that will serve as a special search of best practices. The publication is scheduled by the end of this year.

A little about AcPpJ:

AcPpJ was created in 2004 with the aim of collecting, preserving and promoting the claims and rights of people working in youth policies, one of the professional groups less known and silenced in the scope of policies.

For the last 30 years in Catalonia the youth policies are applied in the Spanish and European context mostly thanks to the willing and enthusiastic dedication of hundreds of professionals who have always prioritized the desire to serve the community and to support the young people. However so far this professional group has not been able to organize itself as professionals and has suffered deplorable working conditions, with high levels of uncertainty and a lack of technical and professional recognition.

The objective of AcPpJ is rectifying this situation.
